'LIE' CHARGE STIRS NEW STORM

Cold Stems Serious Ohio Flood Threat

Ship Breaks In Two—37 Saved

One of the most remarkable sea rescues ever effected was made 1,500 miles off the U. S. coast in mid-Atlantic by a Norwegian freighter which first saved seven men clinging to the forecastle part of an oil tanker and hours later rescued 30 others desperately clinging to the wreckage of the stern of the ship, 10 miles away. The rescue ship, the Duala, was in the vicinity by chance, as the members of the crew of the wrecked ship, the Jaguar, had no time to flash an S.O.S. Top photo shows one of the lifeboats of the Duala with members rescued from the stern of the Jaguar. Bottom is a closeup of the sinking stern after the rescue.

HIGH WATERS SWEEP TOWNS IN LOWLANDS

Freezing Temperatures Lessen Danger But Cincy Prepares For Minor Inundation.

SIX REPORTED DEAD

Hundreds Flee Homes as Tide Spills Over Banks In Some Towns Along River.

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI—The mighty Ohio river rose slowly toward flood stage from Pittsburgh to Carrollton, Ky., today but the danger of a serious inundation apparently was lessened by freezing weather which stemmed tributary runoffs.

The sub-freezing temperatures, however, added to the hardship of hundreds of families forced to evacuate lowland homes as high waters poured into some Ohio river cities. Red Cross and other relief agencies immediately went to work to care for the refugees.

6 Deaths Reported.

Two were dead in West Virginia and four others were reported to have been drowned by swift-rising mountain streams. The high waters resulted from heavy rains and snows of the past three days over the mountainous Ohio valley watershed regions in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky and over hilly southern Ohio.

U. S. Meteorologist W. C. Devereaux at Cincinnati revised upward today his predicted crests for the swollen Ohio. He said a crest of 56 feet could be expected from Huntington, W. V., to Carrollton. Cincinnati, where the stage was 49 before noon, has a 52-foot flood stage and Huntington's is 55.

The predicted crest would be far below the record 1937 flood levels when the river rose to 79.99 at Cincinnati and caused more than 200 deaths and several millions of dollars property damage in the worst inundation of the valley's history.

New Threat Looms.

Although freezing temperatures slowed the runoff into bankfull tributaries temporarily, warmer weather was forecast tonight and Sunday for much of Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky.

Freezing temperatures were forecast in the Hocking, Scioto and Muskingum river areas.

The stage at Portsmouth, protected by a 62-foot wall, was 50.6

What a Change One Short Week Can Make!

—News-Journal Photos.

Just a week ago today, a series of eight photographs in The News-Journal showed instances of flagrant violations of traffic laws. But these six pictures tell a different story. Chiefly as a result of the work of the police "cycle patrol" violations are less frequent, and—what is more noticeable—there's plenty of parking space in the business district. The pictures, all taken in mid-afternoon, show it graphically. Top row, left to right, a vast expanse on West Fourth between Walnut and Mulberry, room for at least three cars on Park avenue west between Mulberry and Walnut and room for four more on Walnut opposite the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Bottom row, left to right, plenty of space near the Park avenue entrance of the hotel, lots of room on the west side of the park (virtually unheard of heretofore) and the "cycle patrol" in action, chalking the tire of a parked car in a 30-minute parking zone. This mobile unit can cover all parts of the busines district within a 30-minute period, and if the car being marked is still there 30 minutes later—a traffic ticket.

Roosevelt Blast Brings Demand To Bare 'Secret'

Congress Republicans Ask President To Let Senators Disclose Their Version Of Conference; Germany, Italy Unleash New Attacks.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt's denial that he looked upon the Rhine as America's frontier brought a Republican demand today that he let senators tell their version of what he said at a secret conference on foreign affairs last Tuesday.

Senator Bridges (R., N. H.), one of the military committee members who attended the conference and pledged secrecy, made the demand after the president had disputed some accounts of the meeting and had accused some newspaper owners and senators of misrepresenting his point of view.

Immediately after the conference, word leaked out that Mr. Roosevelt had told the senators that America was selling military airplanes to France because helping the democratic nations of the world was part of the present American foreign policy. One senator said he understood the president to have said that America's frontier was now the Rhine, but some others denied he had made such a statement.

Draws Repercussion.

The press in Germany and Italy reacted furiously to the first reports of Tuesday's meeting. Italian papers making such bitter personal attacks on the president that the United States embassy in Rome asked the Italian government yesterday for an explanation. And congressional critics cried out that the president was leading the country along the road to war.

At his press conference yesterday Mr. Roosevelt stamped as a "deliberate lie" the report that he had talked of the Rhine as this country's frontier, and he dictated a terse foreign policy statement which began:

"We are against any entangling alliances, obviously."

Talking with reporters later, Senator Bridges declared:

"As long as the president has stated his views of what took place there, I think that it is only fair that the members of the committee be permitted to state their views. This is a question that may involve the destiny of America and millions of Americans."

'All Fears Removed.'

Chairman Pittman (D., Nev.), of the senate foreign relations committee, who attended the White House press conference yesterday, contended the statement there should "absolutely remove any fear that our president is going down the road to war."

The Nazi-controlled press in Germany refused to accept Mr. Roosevelt's explanation that the report he had said this country's frontier was on the Rhine was a lie.

"Intrinsically it is of small importance whether the president actually used those words," said Lokal-Anzeiger. "He must have meant something like it or else American papers could hardly have been so unanimous on the subject."

National Zeitung of Essen the mouthpiece of Hermann Wilhelm Goering, said the president obviously had received a bad fright from the reaction to the reports.

In London, one diplomat commented that Mr. Roosevelt's "outspoken sympathy for democracies is enough at present to put a brake on the aggressive policies of Germany and Italy."

Britain to Get Planes.

Meanwhile, one of the controversial plane sales to the European democracies—an order of 200 bombing planes for the British government—reached the stage of first shipments from New York.

At his press conference yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt declared there had been no change in traditional American foreign policy and that there was not going to be any change.

This pronouncement brought an immediate expression of surprise from Senator Nye (R-ND), who attended the Tuesday conference and said immediately afterward that it irked him to be bound by secrecy after such an important discussion.

"If this has been our foreign policy all the time, why the secrecy of late days?" Nye demanded.

It was disclosed that a record of what was said at the meeting had been kept by Henry Kannee, the president's personal stenographer.

G. O. P. SILENT ON ENDORSING

Backs Number For State Liquor, Pension Office Jobs; Shake-up Anticipated.

The county Republican executive committee endorsed a number of persons for jobs in the Mansfield state liquor stores and the county aid for the aged office last night, but party leaders refused today to reveal the endorsements until there are vacancies in the two departments.

"The endorsements were made in the event that there are resignations or dismissals in the liquor stores or pension office," Ralph Hardy, committee chairman, said.

There was no action to approve a candidate for the county maintenance superintendent's post in the state highway office, Hardy said, because Arthur Fletcher, present superintendent under a civil service appointment, refused to resign.

The executive committee previously endorsed James Warrack, Mansfield, for the aid for aged manager's post in the county, held by M. W. Conley, a Democrat.

County Republican leaders said they anticipated a "shake-up" soon in the liquor and state welfare departments, and they plan to be ready with recommendations for jobs if, and when, there are vacancies.

'Wide Open Spaces' Common On Streets

Traffic Campaign Shows Definite Results at End of Second Week—City Officials and Merchants Enthusiastic Over Results.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

Definite results from the police department's two-week-old war on traffic violators—aimed principally at parking—were in evidence in downtown Mansfield today, and have been for several days.

The business district, where a week ago a motorist would have had difficulty in finding parking space, looks most of the time like the wide open spaces of the west.

Even in mid-afternoon there's plenty of parking space to be found on Mansfield's busiest thoroughfares.

But we don't have to tell you about that.

Officers, city officials and merchants are unanimous in praising the results obtained by the creation of the "cycle patrol."

Little 'Squawking.'

Deskmen at police headquarters also were loud in their praise. They said there was very little "squawking" about the payment of traffic tickets issued for parking violations—a "great deal" less than they expected.

Patrolmen C. W. Kyler and Howard Schuck, who man the motorcycle and are charged with a large portion of the enforcement program, both called the patrol the "answer to Mansfield's parking problem."

"We have solved the double parking situation by creating space, heretofore occupied by the overtime parker, so that trucks can pull into the curb to make deliveries," Kyler said.

Patrolman Schuck declared that results of the campaign

Gets Prison Term for Firing at Stepmother

Knox Youth Sent to O. S. R. For 1 to 20 Years As Result of Shooting at Ex-Sweetheart At 'Belling'; 4 Placed on Probation.

A shot he fired at his stepmother—who had been his sweetheart—put Carl Spayde in Ohio state reformatory today, under sentence of one to 20 years.

The 20-year-old Knox county farm hand was sentenced in a shooting that took place during a "belling" party two weeks ago at her home near Bellville.

Spayde had pleaded guilty a week ago to an indictment for shooting with intent to wound, and Prosecutor G. W. Marriott revealed today that the grand jury returned secret indictments against the youth on charges of forgery, carrying concealed weapons and operating a car without the owner's consent.

Youth Father Released.

Before sentencing Spayde, Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston released Jay Hunter, 21-year-old Adario father, on probation for three years, freeing Hunter to attend funeral services this afternoon for his infant son, J. Edison Hunter, who smothered to death two days ago. The youthful father had been held in the county jail.

GO BACK TO PEN

'Bad Actors' at London Farm Ordered to Prison.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The transfer to Ohio penitentiary here of all London prison farm inmates who have escaped and been recaptured or attempted to escape was ordered today by Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood.

The director said the order was a part of a program launched earlier this week when Sherwood instructed Warden James C. Woodard to "clean up" the penitentiary or lose his job. W. F. Amrine, state superintendent of corrections, is making an investigation for Sherwood.

Twenty-three prisoners already have been returned here from London, Sherwood said, and 25 "better" inmates of the penitentiary sent to the prison farm.

Officers for next season will be elected within the next few weeks so that they may take charge of the membership drive, Rev. Roller said.

Possible artists for the 1939-40 season were discussed at a meeting of the association officers last night. It was decided to bring at least one of the top-ranking artists to Mansfield, following a precedent established the first two years of the association's work.

A nominating committee was appointed last night by Rev. Roller, which is made up of W. L. Miller, chairman; Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, Miss Florence MacDonald Mrs. W. J. Hazeltine and Rev. Hayes M. Braker.

HAMILTON —(AP)— Henry J. Kessling, 45, precinct judge of elections, pleaded guilty to a charge of ballot tampering today and was fined $200 and sentenced to six months in the Butler county jail by Common Pleas Judge P. P. Boli.

Kessling admitted he erased "yes" markings on ballots proposing a school bond issue because "I didn't want to see higher taxes." The issue was defeated.

DOWN TO NINE

Cold Hits City Quickly, Due to Depart Suddenly.

A cold wave which settled over Mansfield last night, shoving the mercury down to 9 degrees above zero, is due to leave as quickly as it came, the weatherman predicted today.

It will be fair and not quite so cold tonight, while Sunday will be cloudy and warmer, the forecast said.

Today was a typical winter day, with the mercury at 21 degrees at noon and the sun shining brightly.

The sudden temperature drop last night followed a snow storm which continued all day yesterday, but left only a half inch of snow on the ground.

Driving was hazardous in the city as the light snow packed on the streets, but major highways in this area were clear.

Mansfield To Return To 'Pro' Baseball as 'Farm' of Indians

By OSCAR RUHL

Mansfield will return to organized baseball this year as an affiliate of the Cleveland Indians, it was announced today by Norman Cohen of Toledo, who will sponsor the team in the Ohio State league.

Cohen, who stated that he will exercise the option he owns on the Mansfield franchise Monday, completed arrangements for a working agreement with the Cleveland club in a telephone transaction with H. B. Wetzel, director of the Indians' farm system, in Columbus today.

The Mansfield tie-up with the Indians will be through the Springfield club of the Mid-Atlantic league, Cohen said.

Reached in Columbus by phone, Wetzel told the News-Journal that Cleveland will provide ball players for the Mansfield club in addition to assisting in the operation of the team.

Wetzel said that he will meet with Cohen in Springfield next week to discuss the appointment of a manager for Mansfield.

"A working agreement with Mansfield will provide an ideal setup for Cleveland," Wetzel said, due to the proximity of the two cities. "This will permit us to send many of our promising players directly to Mansfield for tryouts from League park."

Cohen was expected in the city late today to confer with a group of Mansfield business men regarding a pre-season ticket sale. The season will open early in May.

BERLIN: Roosevelt Starts 'Retreating,' Papers Tell Nazis

(By International News Service)

BERLIN—Charges that President Roosevelt has brought about American interference in European affairs, thereby violating the traditional interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine, and that in disavowing the "Rhine frontier" story he is "retreating," were features of today's unremitting semi-official attacks on the United States.

The foreign office, through a bulletin of the "diplomatic-political information service," offered this contention:

"The Monroe Doctrine, proclaimed 120 years ago, represented for the American people the most important cornerstone of traditional United States foreign policy. . . .

"The principle of non-interference in the American continent was subsequently recognized by the European nations, because President Monroe had supplemented and justified it by the assurance that the United States would refrain from interference in European affairs.

"The United States has derived great profit from the doctrine which was based on mutual accord. . . . After almost a century of this tradition, these principles, which has shown their advantages for the United States and which were recognized by Germany 120 years ago and reconfirmed on Jan. 30, 1939 (in Chancellor Hitler's reichstag speech), have been broken unilaterally by two United States politicians curiously resembling each other—Wilson and Roosevelt."

The bulletin pointed out, however, that the peace of Versailles was repudiated by the American people.

"Neutrality laws then were enacted to prevent once and for all a relapse into the policies of intervention in other continents," diplomatic-political service continued. "However, this return to the traditional non-intervention policies was short-lived.

"In view of the improved deliveries in prospect under orders for aircraft placed by the air ministry in the United States last year," the announcement said, "it has been possible to negotiate an increase in contracts for delivery within the period originally contemplated."

BETS ON DEATH VERDICT, LOSES

Youthful Killer of Marshal at Clyde Gets Life, Pays Off 12-Cent Wager.

(By United Press)

FREMONT—Rex Bush, 20, who had bet his last 12 cents that he would be condemned to die for the murder of a peace officer, paid the bet today and prepared for a sentence of life imprisonment.

A jury of 11 men and one woman convicted the Mentone, Ind., youth of first degree murder last night but recommended mercy. Common Pleas Judge A. V. Baumann will sentence Bush to spend his life in Ohio penitentiary within three days.

Bush was charged with killing Marshal Neal D. Fowler of Clyde last Dec. 6 during an automobile chase which followed a 73-cent gasoline station holdup.

Judge Bauman delayed sentence to permit Bush's counsel time to appeal the verdict.

Bush had pleaded innocent because of insanity and then had blamed the slaying on a companion known only as "Spike."

His brother, Jack, 22, a Purdue university student, who was in the courtroom when the verdict was read after five hours deliberation, said: "It's the best we could expect."

Prosecutor A. L. Hyser described Bush as a "laughing, cocky, conceited gunman." W. J. Meade, Bush's attorney, pictured him as a "victim of disappointment."

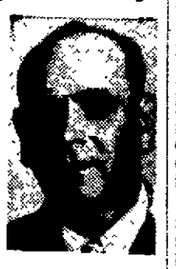
The 4-H Clubs.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS



"MY HEAD to clear thinking; my HEART to greater loyalty; my HANDS to larger service; my HEALTH to better living." That pledge echoes throughout the country, and nearly every farm boy or girl of high school age will recognize it. Many homefolks do not realize the size or the organization to which, perhaps, the boys and girls of their own farm home belong. In its 39 years of existence, it has grown from a nucleus of 500 farm boys who planted high quality seed corn, given them as an experiment, when their fathers were not interested, to a membership of 1,233,000 teen-age boys and girls in every state, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and Alaska.

They are interested in every phase of rural life, and are setting the pace for their elders in creditable fashion. Last year a 14-year-old 4-H girl led her pet Aberdeen Angus into the arena of the International Livestock exposition and walked away with the grand championship. She had fed, groomed and cared for her pet herself.

The club gives awards for health. Three of the four healthiest boys in the nation-wide congress are 5 ft. 7 in. tall. None of them smokes or drinks, and all desire to become expert and profitable farmers.

The 4-H-ers stand for better manhood and womanhood; for neighborly living, and finer rural homes, churches and schools. They cling to the principles that have made America great. They stress the nobility of work, and express the independence that it gives.

To know that such a wonderful army of strong young people will be upon the farms of our country for years to come, and will help to mold the policies of the nation and lead the rural population to better living, is an inspiration to all of us.

WINTER CONTINUES AS CLUB PLANS AFFAIRS

Week-end Social Events To Be Followed By Several Luncheons, Guest Tea, Study Programs, and Card Parties.

By FRANCES E. GENSLEY

AUTHENTIC reports regarding the groundhog still leave us in a quizzical mood. We have heard usually reliable sources report that he did, and that he didn't see his shadow. Whether this pet American superstition has anything to do with the weather or not I wouldn't venture to say, but the snow is a rather good indication that the week-end will be a white one.

Seeing everyone is prety tired of the weather, both as a fact and as a topic of conversation, let's turn to more entertaining events including plans of Mansfield clubs for the week to come.

Looking Over the Week's Calendar.

Tonight, as you all have heard by now, members, escorts and guests of the A. A. U. W. will be dancing in the Mansfield-Leland ballroom. Those Westinghouse syncopators directed by R. O. (Bob) Richards will swing out between the hours of 10 p. m. and 1 a. m. Some lucky woman, and her escort too, who arrive before 10:30 will receive a very charming door prize. Mrs. F. J. (Helen) Herringhaus, and Mrs. George (Helen) Ingram are smiling happily now even though they have been busy collecting Chinese checker boards, cards, and tallies from their friends, for it looks like the benefit affair will be a success. The two Helens are in charge of all arrangements.

Are you a getter-upper on Sunday morning? That's all right, you have loads of company, but none of the members of the Business and Professional Women's club will be among the sleeper-inners tomorrow. That group of ambitious women are having breakfast at 9 o'clock at the hotel. Margaret West, Carrie Willett, Thelma Reed, Lena Colgan, Faye Cisco and Rebecca Grubaugh are arranging the affair. (So sorry, just couldn't repress that yawn.) So let's get along and take a look at Monday.

Monday.

You recall that a group of physicians' wives gathered a few weeks ago in something of a protest meeting. Well, perhaps that is a bit strong, but they felt that seeing their husbands were frequently busy with medical association meetings, they too might have an interest in the events of the medical world. Now they are a full-fledged auxiliary to the Richland County Medical society, and they'll be meeting Monday afternoon with Mrs. J. S. Hattery on Marion avenue. Mrs. A. C. Biddle will assist.

When Victorian members meet they'll be at the home of Mrs. Mark Wolcott on Maple street, instead of at the Women's Club as is customary. A dessert-luncheon will be served to members of the Round Table club at the Women's Club with Mrs. H. L. Creveling in charge, and Mrs. Samuel Theaker, Glessner avenue, will open up her home Monday night to Monday Study club members.

While the Delta Theta Tau giris are having a business meeting over at the Southern, Mrs. Earl Gaar will be hostess to members of Chi Omega Alumnae club a her Park avenue west home. In addition Mrs. H. W. Smith will entertain the Delphinium club, the Moose board and committee chairmen will be in session at the home, and L'Amici club will have a session with Mrs. Anthony Mollica on West Sixth street.

Tuesday.

Although members of Alpha Pi Sigma always entertain with lovely parties, one of the most memorable affairs in the year is the "pal party." This will be held Tuesday at the hotel with Ann Hagar and Isabel Gerstmeyer hostessing the event. The usual program of study will be followed by members of the Sorosis when they are welcomed the same evening to the Women's Club by Mrs. Ambrose Middleton.

The same night the hotel will be the scene of the Dolly Madison dinner-bridge with Mrs. Mabel Bowers, Mrs. C. H. Huston, Mrs. R. E. Hutchison, Mrs. Sadie Ripper, Mrs. Viola Lloyd, Mrs. C. W. Uhler, Mrs. Curt Moore and Mrs. Clara Hicks making all the arrangements.

"From Coast to Corner Cupboards" is the title of the program to be participated in at the Club by Travelers members. At 11 a. m. the group will gather to examine hobby exhibits and luncheon will be served at 1 p. m. Mrs. Heringhaus, Coleman road, will be hostess to Notre Dame Study club members.

Mrs. W. R. Harper will talk about "Worlds Underground" at the meeting of the Audubon club which will be held at the home of Mrs. Roy Curry, 175 Bowman avenue. While a number of small social clubs and church organizations are in session during the afternoon and evening the C. L. of C. will have a social affair at the Bird building club rooms.

The same afternoon will see members of the Chi Sigma Mothers club attending a dessert-bridge party at Mrs. Emil Zelenka's home on Summit street. The sorority members themselves will have a business sesion at the hotel in the evening. Another club—one which we haven't heard much about in Mansfield—the Soroptimist club, will lunch at the Towne House at 1 p. m. Tuesday. Mrs. George Marks and Mrs. Ralph Morris are in charge.

Wednesday.

Wednesday seems to be a favorite club day. At any rate there is plenty going on Feb. 8. Miss Elizabeth Albers will be hostesing Philomathian members at her Lexington avenue home while Mrs. James Crum is receiving members of the Student club. Both study groups have a membership of young business girls and matrons, and their programs include papers and book reviews as well as an occasional social session.

The Philip Corey home way out on Park avenue west will be the scene of the meeting of the Wednesday Study club when the members gather to hear Mrs. Ephraim Brown talk on "Ceramics." That same day a guest luncheon will be given at the Women's Club by members of the Conversational club. Mrs. Walter W. Willis will be hostess for the affair, and Mrs. George W. Hall is arranging a musical for the afternoon program.

Luncheons evidently will be an important form of entertaining Wednesday, for the Sappho club is also supposed to lunch at the club. Hostesses include Mrs. H. W. Peterson, Mrs. H. L. Princehorn, Miss Mary Proctor, Miss Thelma Reed and Mrs. W. E. Renwick.

In addition to the meeting of the Journey club which will be held at the home of Mrs. Neil Remy, West Third street, a great many small organizations, the Welfare club, the Matlock Charity band, the Women of the Moose and several church groups will also have sessions.

Thursday.

Thursday has in no way slipped from its position as favorite day for church organization meetings. Quite a number of groups have selected that day. Two study groups, the Timely Topics club, and the Mansfield Story Telling League, will also assemble.

Mrs. Julius Weber will entertain the Timely Topic club when a sealed program is given, and the other organization will meet at the Y. W. C. A. Mrs. Joseph Morganstern, Glenwood Heights, will be hostess for the Valentine party of the Mary Markley Missionary society of St. Paul Lutheran church. Mrs. Anna Huber will entertain the Loyal Daughters class of St. John's the same evening.

While the Ladies' guild of the Mayflower Congregational church is gathered with Mrs. Ada Lurz of Harker street, a program will be presented to members of the West Fifth Street School Mothers club. The Prospect School Mothers will also meet, and both St. Luke's guild and the St. Paul Ladies' Aid will have meetings. A number of other meetings of social clubs are set for this date.

Friday.

A dramatic reading of "Susan and God" will be offered by Mrs. V. H. Lodde when members of the Cosmopolitan club give a guest tea at the Women's Club Friday afternoon. The hostesses are Mrs. Paul McConnell and Mrs. Frank Forshee.

The younger set will gather at Phyllis Smith's on Park avenue west Friday evening for a meeting of the Little Mozarts—music study club. Some of the smaller clubs to meet the same day are the Domestic Art club with Mrs. Wayne Jackson, the Belles club with Corinna Weaver, the Gardenia club with Mrs. Julia Grandstaff, and the Coterie club with Mrs. C. L. Mitchell.

Two other clubs for children will also be in session as the Sarah E. Lewis Junior order gathers at the Memorial building and the Home Guards and King Heralds will be meeting with Lucille Chesrown. Mrs. William Kuhn will entertain members of the Art Study club at her home the same day with Mrs. Howard McClure and Mrs. J. Arthur Nichols assisting. The topic will be given by Mrs. Ralph Race.

Saturday.

Although there are no club affairs planned for Saturday, two weddings—and both at the same church—should be enough to keep Mansfield socialites busy. At 11:30 in the morning Miss Vivian Stevenson will walk down the aisle at the First United Brethren church where she will exchange nuptials vows with Harry Clavert, Columbus.

In the afternoon at 3:30 o'clock Miss Kathryn Schomer and Philip Stehle jr will be united in marriage before the altar at the same church. Both brides-elect have been guests of honor in the past two weeks at several pre-nuptial affairs.

So much for the events of next week. It sounds as if there is plenty lined up to keep Mansfield's club and civic leaders occupied every single day and most of the evenings.

12 PRESENT.

There were 12 members of the Neighborhood Bible club present at the home of Mrs. D. L. Arehart, 710 West Third street, with Mrs. Jay Swigart in charge of the program. Mrs. Arthur Grau led the devotions, and Mrs. C. H. Henkel led the study. Mrs. A. B. M. White was welcomed into membership and plans were made to meet Feb. 17 with Mrs. J. R. Turner, 136 Rae avenue.

Grand Opera Season to Attract Mansfielders to Cleveland

MANSFIELD'S devotees of grand opera are anticipating the spring festival of the Metropolitan at Cleveland auditorium, which will bring such popular stars as Kirsten Flagstad, Grace Moore, Helen Jepson, Lily Pons, Martinelli, John Charles Thomas, the dapper Polish star, Jan Kiepura, Lawrence Tibbett and many others during the week of March 27-Apr. 1.

Eight operas will be presented in six days with matinees on Friday and Saturday. The two Wagner operas, "Lohengrin" and "Die Walkuere" will be presented on Wednesday evening and Friday evening, respectively, with the Wagnerian stalwarts, Flagstad, Melchoir, Thorborg and others in the cast.

The season opens with Verdi's colorful opera "Otello." Lawrence Tibbett will sing Iago and Martinelli will be heard as the Moor, while Helen Jepson, Akron's contribution to grand opera, will be Desdemona.

An interesting feature of "Louise" on Tuesday night, in which Grace Moore sings, will be the appearance of Maria Gambarelli, new Metropolitan prima ballerina, and her ballet corps.

Massenet's "Thais" on Thursday marks the second appearance of Miss Jepson and the first of the popular John Charles Thomas. The four operas scheduled for Friday and Saturday are "Manon" and "Lohengrin" on Friday and "La Tosca" and "Lucia de Lammermoor" on Saturday. Marjorie Lawrence will sing in "Tosca" and the diminutive Pons in "Lucia."

The W. E. Jones Piano company is headquarters for the opera season in Mansfield and both season tickets and single performance tickets may be secured there.

—Advice—

Must She Write Her Thanks?

DEAR MISS FAIFAX:

I've just come back from my honeymoon, and now I have all my "thank you" letters to write. I received a great many gifts, and as it is so tiresome writing notes by hand, would it be proper if I had cards engraved, similar to some I recently saw in a stationer's window? They read "Mr. and Mrs. . . . . thank you for your lovely wedding gift."

THREE-WEEKS BRIDE.

No, my dear, I'm sorry to say you will have to write every person an individual note by hand, on your very best stationery. An engraved card of thanks is proper only when sent by a public official, to acknowledge an overwhelming number of congratulatory messages received from strangers.

When you write, be sure to name the gift for which you are thanking, and for goodness sake, don't get them mixed up in the envelopes. If you would like it, I will send you the name of a good letter-writing manual, which can be bought for a dollar. If you send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope (3-cent stamp) it will come by return mail. This will give you some good suggestions for writing letters.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Don't you think, when a young man takes out a girl for almost a year, that he should introduce her to his family? He doesn't even like to walk past his apartment when we are out together. We love each other very much. What do you think is wrong? Could it be that he's ashamed of me, or is it just bashfulness on his part? I try to be neat in my appearance, and he always tells me how nice I look. I'm proud to have him come to the house, and he has met all my family.

DORIS.

I've had several letters along the same line as yours. Here are some of the solutions which have developed. In one instance, the family depended on the boy's pay envelope, and if he seemed to get serious with any girl, there were scenes at home.

Another case which came to my attention was due to parents who were still following Old World ideas, and had picked out a girl of their own nationality and religion. The boy, preferring Americans, had chosen his own girl, and of course, the family were objecting.

Very often boys are teased by their families, especially when they bring the girl friend to call. Don't be discouraged. If you both really care about each other, sooner or later you will meet his family. I would advise you not to force it.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Ah! Mrs. Graham!" he intoned icily. "I am indeed grateful for this permission to come up to your suite. May I come in?"

"Since I am only a guest in this suite, which is provided for your daughter-in-law and paid for by you," I told him coolly, "I think you may be permitted to enter."

"Won't you sit down?" I said sweetly, indicating a huge overstuffed chair.

"I prefer to stand, for the moment," he said stiffly. "But permit me."

"May I ask you why you disowhy you permitted my daughter-in-law to disobey my expressed command that she stay in the hotel this afternoon, and await my arrival?" he asked.

"You must not blame Mary," I said quickly, trying to make my manner ingenuous. "She would have remained in the suite as you requested, but I insisted that she come out with me, and she feels that you have put me in a position of authority over her, and that she must obey my wishes."

His frowning dark eyes regarded me inscrutably for a long second.

"Again, may I ask, why you permitted her to leave the suite when I had said that I was coming here?'

His tones held the quintessence of angry displeasure, but I looked at him with eyes divested of any emotion save a touch of amusement.

"Sit down, and I'll tell you," I returned coolly. "You look so uncomfortable standing, that I really can't find it in my heart to talk to you while you are in an upright position."

He gave me another searching scrutiny, then bowed and seated himself in the chair opposite me which I had indicated.

"I am ready to listen to you," he said unsmilingly.

I took my courage in both hands, and gave him as engaging a smile as I could manage.

"Will you promise not to say anything until I have finished?" I asked with a carefully calculated air of roguishness.

Skating Excellent Exercise

By MME. QUI VIVE.

To grandma one of the surprising changes in this delirious life of ours is the tremendous interest in outdoors sports.

Now grandma's attention is centered on skating, which has become so popular that every small town has its mirror-smooth, frozen pond, every large city numerous skating clubs where fashionable individuals gather in crowds. And what skating is doing for feminine shapes is well worth reporting. It offers good fun; it accomplishes more than hours of arm swinging and high kicking in the early morning, hours when you don't feel like expending any more energy than is necessary to sip your coffee and nibble your toast.

Miss Ruth Burns, a professional skater and instructor in the Chicago Figure Skating club, offers interesting information on this subject.

"Dancing is a beautiful exercise," says Miss Burns, "but you'll notice that the average ballet dancer has over-sized calves, undersized arms. The musculature below the waist line does all the work. Movements are not as fluid or as easy as they are in skating. In skating there is movement in every muscle of the body, and, if the skater learns under the eye of an instructor, these movements will be expressive of perfect grace and rhythm.

"The sport is a figure normalizer. If the body is thin, it will develop through stimulated circulation and fiber activity. Should a woman be cursed with too abundant flesh she will work off her adipose cushions. No fat cells will stay on muscles that are given a frequent workout. They can't stand disturbances. They're all for slow-going traffic, easy lives.

"Outdoor skating has cosmetic value. The flesh on the face tingles with the cold air, yet the stimulated blood streams create a glow. This hot-cold condition makes for firm tissues and lovely coloring.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

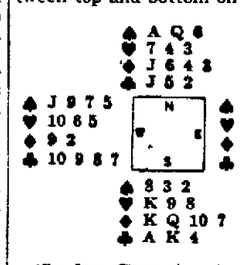
"The Authority on Authorities"

FOILING AN END PLAY

Keen cardsmen can sometimes see, as soon as the dummy goes down, that the declarer can squeeze them later on or catch them in a lead-throwing end play, unless radical measures are taken at the outset to prevent it. Even if the trick scored by such a procedure does not mean the difference between making and defeating the contract, it can be vitally important in tournament play, perhaps the difference between top and bottom on the deal.



(Dealer: East. North side vulnerable.)

East opened here with 1-Heart, South doubled. North bid 2-Diamonds, South a rather fancy and daring 2-No trump and North 3-No trump. South felt this was probably sound, since whatever his partner held outside of diamonds was almost sure to be in spades, in view of East's heart bid and his own club holding.

When West open the heart 6, East felt that his own failure to double the contract necessitated his setting it at least two tricks in order to ge anything but a bad score. He could count on getting either two or three tricks in hearts, one in diamonds and probably one in clubs, which would likely be the trick with which he would be thrown into the lead and would have to lead into the spade tenace. So he strained to get his partner into the lead.

South let East hold the first trick wih the heart J. East then led the Q, which South had to win or else later lose his K. He led the diamond K to East, who then made his sortie, a lead of the heart 2, hoping West had led from the 10-6-5. West won the 10 and led the spade 5 to the Q and K. East now cashed the heart A and returned a spade to the A. Declarer took three diamonds and two clubs, then lost a club at the end, going down two instead of only one.

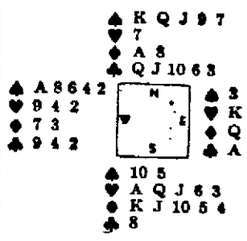
Monday's Problem.



(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

If East bids 1-Club on this deal, South 1-Heart and West a very hazardous 1-Spade, what is the soundest further course of the auction?

Mint-Chocolate

Mint flavored frosting gives a delicious covering to chocolate cake. Add one-third cup crushed candy mints to the regular boiled frosting recipe after it has cooked. Beat until frosting is cool. If a green color is desired tint with fruit coloring. Or you can add one-fourth teaspoon oil of peppermint to the frosting while beating. Color frosting pink and flavor it with oil of wintergreen or clove when frosting white or yellow cakes.

Here is something to serve after a skating party or any outdoor exercise. Brown, split frankfurters in a small amount of fat heated in frying pan. Spread with chili sauce or catsup and tuck into split toasted rolls which have been well buttered. These are tops when served with hot cocoa or coffee. Have plenty on hand.

Often a little crust forms on top of bread dough when it is set to rise. To help prevent this, lightly spread the dough with a thin coating of melted fat applied on a pastry brush.

Chess Pie Favorite In South

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Ever taste a Chess Pie? No, the name has nothing to do with the game! And don't say you "don't remember," for if you once tasted a real honest-to-goodness Chess Pie, you'd not forget. Chess Pie is an old-time Southern favorite. Well, good food should not have any frontiers, so why not make this pie wherever you may be? Here is a Chess Pie recipe which is both lovely and luscious. Chess Pie requires pastry, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup butter, 5 beaten eggs, 4 tablespoons milk, ½ cup chopped nuts, one cup raisins, chopped, and ½ pint cream, whipped. Line patty tins with pastry. Cream butter and sugar. Beat eggs. Add beaten eggs and milk to creamed mixture, then add raisins and nuts. Put into lined patty tins, filling ⅔ full. Bake in an oven of 450 F. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 320 F. for 30 minutes. Cool and top with whipped cream.

Banana Cake with Mile High Frosting is a tempting dish to set before guests. The recipe calls for 1½ cups sugar, ¾ cup butter, 2 eggs, 2½ cups cake flour (sifted before measuring), one teaspoon each soda and vanilla, 1¼ cups ripe banana (forced through potato ricer, then measured), ⅔ cup sour milk or buttermilk, ½ teaspoon baking powder. Cream butter, add sugar; cream together until light and fluffy. Add whole eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Sift together flour, soda and baking powder. Add sour milk and vanilla to bananas. Add alternately the banana and flour mixtures to the first mixture. Beat until smooth and well mixed. Divide evenly into pans. Place in preheated oven and bake at 370 F. for 25 to 30 minutes.

The frosting takes 2 egg whites, 1 cup light corn syrup, ½ teaspoon vanilla and ¼ teaspoon almond extract. Combine egg whites and corn syrup in large bowl. Beat with rotary beater until mixture stands up in peaks. If an electric mixer is used, start at low and gradually work up to high speed. Add flavoring last. This mixture may be kept in the refrigerator for several days if it is well covered.

We'll wind up this sweet dissertation on desserts with a recipe for some delicious cakes. Nut Dainties require one cup nut meats (pecans, English or black walnuts), 1 tablespoon sugar, teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup cake flour and confectioners' sugar. Grind nut meats in food chopper, using a fine knife, then add butter, sugar and vanilla which have been creamed together. Work in the flour, then roll into marble shaped balls. Place on a buttered cookie sheet and bake in a preheated oven at 300 F. for 40 minutes. Roll twice in confectioners' sugar—once while hot, and once again when cold. Makes 2 dozen. These delicious cakes may be decorated with chocolate shot, cocoanut or ground nuts. Dip in slightly beaten egg white first. In this case use 3 tablespoons sugar in recipe instead of one.

CHAPTER XVII

As the jerky little roadster came to a standstill before the apartment house where Kurt lived, Alix said, "Wait a minute, Eddie."

"Nervous?"

"A little maybe. I've been in the country, you know. Have to get used to city ways again." But she felt weak at the thought of seeing Kurt again. As if, she thought, the thought of him had left her. Day and night in her mind he and Tod had been with her constantly. "Let me be gay," she thought. "Let me be friendly and casual . . . and pretend." She said, "I'm all right now, Eddie."

* * *

Jaffers opened the door and smiled in recognition. There were probably two dozen people in the spacious room, talking, smoking, drinking. Immediately she saw Kurt who frowned as if he did not know her and then came to her. Alix? She looked marvelous, he thought. Alix looked marvelous . . .

"Hello," he said. "I want to know where you've been. Where was your hideout? You look . . ." But he left the sentence unfinished, wanting to say, "You look fresh and lovely and vivid and very, very young. You look as you did the first and only time I ever kissed you."

Alix said, "There's nothing like a good disappearing act, you know." And as always, she thought, he looked splendid and yet somehow a little tired, a little on edge. Was Gina here?

Jaffers opened the door again and when she turned, Don was beside her, his sophisticated, confident self.

"Well, my vanished secretary," he said, bowing. "I even offered Eddie a bribe to tell me where you were. It's the first time a bribe didn't work. I called the apartment house where you used to live and some acid-voiced female was even ruder than Eddie. Her manner indicated that it was none of my business where you were. So, you see, I really have been concerned about you."

"I told her not to tell anybody, Don." Her eyes followed Kurt across the room. Still she did not see Gina.

Don said, "Your job is waiting. An empty chair and a lonely typewriter get on my nerves. They make me think I've read an obituary notice. You are coming back, aren't you?"

"No. I'm not coming back, Don. I can't talk about it very well now in the midst of a party. But I should like to talk to you about that and . . . other things."

"Splendid! And I want to show you the house, Ivy House. Will you go out with me tomorrow afternoon? But first you'll have to tell me where you've been staying . . ."

She was telling him how to get to Tuck's when Gina came in, wearing a flame-colored dress. Her sulky mouth was deeply crimson, her face, as Alix remembered it, ivory-colored. She dominated the room the moment she entered it.

Seeing Alix, who was still wearing her white coat, she came directly to her and said, "You're Alix Barton, of course. I remember you. I'm so glad you came, darling. What a marvelous tan! Come into the guest room and leave your coat."

* * *

In the guest room Gina stood by the window and smoked. Alix, ill at ease under her gaze, fumbled nervously in her bag for lipstick and comb.

"Kurt tells me you've been out of town," Gina said finally.

"I haven't been far. Just in the country with a friend."

Gina's black eyes lighted. "Are you good at keeping a secret?" She looked at Alix, hating her, thinking, "When Kurt and I were in love before, I didn't have to share him with anybody. He was mine. But this time I'm sharing him with you. He mentions your name often without realizing how often. He's told me about your brother, how much he admires you. I'm sick of hearing about you. But I'm not going to lose him to you, because I need him."

Alix smiled. "For a woman I think I'm rather good at keeping secrets. Why?"

Gina came closer. "I don't know why I'm telling you especially but you are one of Kurt's dearest friends and I thought you'd like to know how happy he is, how happy we both are. We were married secretly two weeks ago. Oh, we're not going to keep it a secret long. I know I can depend upon you not to tell anybody."

She went out, leaving Alix staring at her own reflection in the mirror. It was like the end of the world.

Alix was grateful that no one came into the room just then. "Kurt is married to Gina, secretly married. They are married! She thought again and again because she had to make herself believe it and accept it. But more than that, she had to go out into the other room filled with guests and wear a smile and be gay . . . see him. Oh, yes, you had to do the gallant thing and be a gallant loser. Why had Gina told her? Was she jealous of her? She wanted to laugh bitterly. Jealous of the one night they had had in New York and their innocent dinners in the shabby little restaurant? After he had seen Gina, he had never really seen her, Alix, again.

There was a knock on the door. "It's I, Eddie. May I come in?"

"Yes. Come in."

He didn't know what had happened to her but he had never seen her look like this. She was like a statue in her white dress—mute, deaf, tragic.

"What's wrong, Alix?"

"Oh, nothing."

"You can't kid me. What did she say to you?"

"I can't tell you. Let's go in."

"I know. She told you that she and Kurt were going to be married. Sorry, Alix." But he wasn't sorry, really. "It's a bad break."

* * *

In the living room Gina came to her immediately and introduced her to the other guests. There were several people from New York. Gilda Mitchell, Bart Conway, Jerry Fayne. She noticed the latter, a tall, handsome, dark-haired young man, because he had been in a play she had seen with Eddie in the early winter.

Kurt touched her arm and smiled.

"Hello, stranger. Give an account of yourself."

She looked up at him. Her throat felt full and aching. Now there would never be any more memories added to the few she had of them together. She would never see his dark eyes look at her warmly over the wrinkled tablecloth in Angela Dominico's little restaurant. She would never feel the firm mouth against hers in a second kiss. Forever had never seemed quite so long until now.

Gina, standing apart, surveyed the scene with wise eyes. There was Don with a thin glass in his hand looking at Alix with narrowed eyes. He was like some one lurking in the shadows waiting to spring, she thought. There was young Eddie trying to talk to Lisa while he looked at Alix with infatuated eyes. Then Gina looked at Jerry Fayne because he was looking so intently at her that she could not escape his gaze. The young fool, she thought, who imagined himself madly in love with her. The lovesick juvenile. He'd been following her around for weeks. He was mad. She had not wanted him to come tonight. She was afraid he'd make a scene, do something crazy when . . . when she had everything her way now.

Kurt laughed. "Alix, you can't give an account of yourself in this bedlam. I couldn't hear you. Let's go into the dining room."

It had been in a dining room that they had first been alone, the dining room of Don's apartment. She had been so happy that night, so newly in love, so unafraid. And over the flickering candles he had asked to see her again. That had been their first time alone. This was their last time.

He said, "I don't want to bring up anything unpleasant, Alix, but I have been wondering if you've had any news of your brother."

"Nothing." Not a word from Tod or from Nancy or from Bernice. She looked up and said, "I hope you'll be very happy, Kurt. Happy with Gina always.

His dark eyes kindled. "Why do you say that?" He came close to her and took her by the shoulders. For some reason, he knew not why, he felt strangely shaken. "Have I been missing something, Alix? Have you . . . did you care for me?" Immodest thing to ask, he thought. She'd think him a conceited fool.

This was like dying another little death . . .

"Why, no, Kurt. Not that way. You've been a marvelous friend." Lie to make him feel better. He doesn't want you to love him. Let not the thought that you loved him, too, spoil his happiness with Gina. He'd be embarrassed if he knew and very, very sorry for you, and pity is intolerable from a man you love.

"That's how I thought you felt about me, Alix.

She smiled and said, "Let's join the others, shall we?"

She went in ahead of him and he didn't take his eyes from her. Alix, so lovely tonight, walking away from him, walking toward Don and Eddie . . .

Don said, "If I can find your cloister, I'll be down tomorrow afternoon, Alix."

A little later Eddie put his glass on a tray and said, "I'm not enjoying this much, Alix. I know you're not. You're just pretending. What do you say we make a quiet exit?"

She did not see Kurt when she came out of the guest room. Jaffers, looking very tired, murmured, "Good night."

* * *

While they were waiting for the elevator, Eddie said, "Poor old Jaffers will lead a rough life when Kurt and Gina are married. Gina's New York friends will make this a regular hangout. I'm going to miss dropping by here evenings to talk to Kurt."

Alix thought, "This is having your heart broken. You don't cry. It's worse because you don't feel anything or care about anything."

Eddie said, "Don't look like that, Alix!"

He left her on the steps of the bungalow and drove back to town.

Here's a scene of the battlefield where firing started today in The News-Journal Individual Sweepstakes. The site is the Meder Recreation alleys. The tournament will continue for two week-ends.

FIRING started today in The News - Journal Individual Sweepstakes at the Meder Recreation alleys.

Shifts were scheduled throughout the day, with bowling being resumed in the elimination at 2 p. m. Sunday.

A feature of this week-end's competition will be the crowning of the women's champion.

The women's shifts will be completed Sunday afternoon on the lower alleys, with $10 going to the feminine bowling queen. Other cash prizes will be determined by the entry.

First prize in the men's division is $25, with the other cash awards being determined by the size of the prize fund.

Twenty cents of each dollar paid by the bowlers in entry fees will go into the prize fund.

The elimination is conducted on a handicap basis, with the pins rolled over averages counting as the tournament scores.

Bowlers' averages are taken from the leagues in which they have bowled the most games. Fifteen games are necessary to qualify an average.

Those who have not bowled 15 games in any one league will be permitted to combine their averages of more than one league to become eligible.

Those who have not made reservations for the tournament are requested to do so immediately as the shifts are rapidly being filled.

Nine Strikes In Row Give Orr 279 Game; Cleckner Hits 694

SLAMMING the polished uprights for the fanciest scores of the week, Winnie Cleckner and Jimmy Orr, bowling in the Moose Home league, shared spotlight at the Meder alleys last night.

While Cleckner's 694 series was probably the best bowling effort of the evening, Orr was more spectacular in his bid for recognition.

Orr compiled a fancy 279 score in the middle game of his series, but failed to get more than 577 pins for his total. He started his big game with a spare, and then piled up nine straight strikes before being stopped by the 10-pin.

Orr led the No. 5 team to two victories over No. 1, which was paced by Brig Young's 646. Bill Donnellan contributed a 606 to the No. 1 total.

Featuring a spectacular 268 in his middle game, Cleckner, who opened with a 225 and finished with a 201, led the No. 3 team to a clean sweep over No. 6. Cleckner's younger brother, Leroy, paced the losers with a 606.

Bettina Wins Gotham Title

Fox 'Out' on Feet In Ninth, Referee Stops Fight.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Well sir, Melio Bettina is the light heavyweight champion of the world in New York state. And if John Henry Lewis doesn't look right sharp the Beacon, N. Y., bully boy is liable to become boss all over the United States.

Melio cut down Tiger Jack Fox, Spokane, Wash., in 1:22 of the ninth round of their 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden last night. In so doing he revealed himself as a courageous, aggressive young man with a sharp punch.

For seven rounds Melio took second billing to the antics of about 1,000 of his fellow townspeople in the crowd of 7,947, which paid a gross gate of $18,189.85. While these rabid followers booed, cheered, whistled and stamped, he fought a floundering, misdirected fight against the Tiger.

In the eight he suddenly got organized and the Tiger fell apart. A left hook to the chin shook Fox and Bettina went after him. Ten punches to the face and body and the Tiger dropped to the canvas. He was up at nine but he was through.

Bettina pummeled him savagely for the rest of the round but the bell saved Fox. It didn't in the ninth. Fox was out on his feet when Referee Ed Josephs stepped in and called it.

Bucyrus Defeats Galion In Overtime.

GALION—Stan Kemery's goal in the early seconds of a "suicide" overtime period broke a 31-all tie and gave the Redmen of Bucyrus high a 33 to 31 decision over Galion in a North Central Ohio league contest here last night.

Galion, trailing at the half, 15 to 11, rallied to gain a 27 to 20 lead going into the final period, but saw its lead disappear as the defense crumbled before the fast-breaking Bucyrus attack. The Redmen were leading, 9-5, in the opening chapter.

Shoemaker and Beck with 12 points apiece shared scoring honors.

Bucyrus defeated the Galion reserves, 21 to 10, in the preliminary affair.

SLOPPY ball handling, erratic shooting and wild passing marred what was expected to develop into an interesting ball game on the Mansfield high school planks last night.

Coach Russ Murphy's Tygers took the decision by a 28 to 16 count in their annual court tussle with Akron West, but failed to show their best brand of basketball while outpointing the visitors.

Guilty of Bad Ball.

The Mansfield cagers were just as guilty of bad basketball as Coach Russ Beichley's courtiers, but they were not quite as bad as the Cowboys.

The mediocre game produced few thrills for the spectators as there was no question as to the outcome after the first couple of minutes in the third period.

West pushed the Tygers during the first half, but was practically helpless after the intermission. The Cowboys were limited to a pair of field goals in the second half as the Tygers piled up their margin.

The lead changed hands five times in the opening period before it ended in a 7-7 deadlock. Jake Lyons scored on the prettiest play of the game, a pass from Dave Shelley, in the first minute of the second quarter to give the Tygers a lead they never relinquished.

Leading 13 to 11 at the rest period, the Tygers wasted little time in stretching their advantage in the third frame. Successive baskets by Jack Dugger, Shelley and Lyons ran their lead to seven points before West retaliated with a goal.

The Cowboys never hit the basket again in this quarter as the Men of Murphy lengthened their edge to 25 to 13 at the end of the period. The Tygers showed their old-time form in this stanza.

Slam-bang basketball dominated the fourth period, with neither team able to do much in a scoring way. Each club made one basket and a free throw to climax the scoring in the listless tussle.

Although the game was rough at times, a new low for the season was set in the number of fouls called by the officials. The Tygers were guilty of only four infractions, probably the smallest number ever called on a Mansfield team. Lyons committed three of the personals. A dozen personals was checked against West.

Shelley contributed four baskets to the Mansfield total to annex individual scoring honors. Scott, despite the fact that he made only one field goal, was next high with seven. He converted five out of seven shots from the foul line. Howard Jordon added six points for the visitors, who were held to seven baskets.

Ties, Wins Game.

Fouled while scoring the tying basket, Martin Henke converted from the foul line to give the Mansfield No. 1 reserve team a 22 to 21 victory over the First Lutherans in the last second of the second of two preliminary games. The Junior Tygers held an 8 to 6 edge at the half.

In the opener, Coach Harry Mehock's No. 2 quintet limited the Park Avenue Baptists to one field goal to win by a one-sided 30 to 2 count.

MINER ON SIDELINES

Jack Miner, star guard, may be lost to the Elks team of the City Class A league for the balance of the season, it was learned today. Miner suffered a sprained ankle when the lodgemen defeated the Globe Clothiers of Galion, 32 to 31 in Galion Thursday.

Mephisto Too Tough

Loses First Fall of Season, But Champ Retains Title at Armory.

Defending his newly-won light-heavyweight wrestling championship in successive nights, the Great Mephisto, 176, defeated "Whitey" Wahlberg, 178, of Duluth, Minn., in the feature match of the Quality club's weekly grapple show in the armory last night.

The Mephisto defeated Frankie Talaber of Chicago Thursday night in Columbus.

Wahlberg battled the champ for 16 minutes and 30 seconds in the first stanza before the "Great One" reached through Whitey's legs from behind and gripped both wrists, then flipped him completely over and pinned him with a shoulder smother.

The champ came back for the second fall with a series of toe holds that had Wahlberg completely at his mercy, until Whitey retaliated with a series of shoulder butts. He then clamped Mephisto in a rolling leg lock and Referee Clarence Miller counted out the "Great One" before he could break it. The fall required 9 minutes 28 seconds. It was the first fall Mephisto has dropped on the Mansfield mat this season.

The Mephisto argued long and loud, claiming it was a rolling fall, but Miller had the last word. The champ then proceeded to turn on the heat for the deciding fall and, in 3:45, had Wahlberg on the mat for the count. He won with a toe hold after unsuccessfully attempting his famous "pile drive." This is the first time the Mephisto has been forced to go more than one fall in defending his crown since regaining it.

The semi-final affair was a better than average contest in which Walter Stratton of Leetonia, defeated the veteran Ernie Dugan of Omaha, Neb., in straight falls.

Dugan, a battle-scarred campaigner, has lost much of his speed but still retains all the "tricks" of the game. It took Stratton 22 minutes to win the first fall with a series of slams and a smother. The deciding fall was a repetition of the first, but required only 11 minutes.

Lon Chaney of Chicago disposed of George "The Great" Ligoski of Russia in 22 minutes in the opening bout of the all-light-heavy show.—By Carl Graham.

Boos Follow Tony's 'Win'

DETROIT—(INS)—Bellowing his defiance of all heavyweight fighters extant, including, and specifically mentioning, Joe Louis, world's titleholder, Tony Galento, Orange, N. J., overstuffed battler, today offered to whip anybody or any two anybodies, put into the ring with him.

Tony's bit of defying came shortly after Natie Brown, Washington, D. C., veteran, had subsided with a dull thud and heaps of histrionics last night in the fourth round of a scheduled ten-rounder, amid a chorus of boos.

Around the ringside rose a dull mutter at Brown's action. Veteran fight reporters shrugged their shoulders and figuratively wiped drops of water from their persons, the ringside sign of a "tank" fight.

The fight went ten minutes and 13 seconds of which time Natie spent more than 80 seconds on the canvas and nearly all the remainder in a none too convincing pretense at fighting back.

'CASH AND CARRY' PYLE DIES OF HEART ATTACK

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — C. C. (Cash and Carry) Pyle, 56, one of the most spectacular promoters of the so-called golden era of sports, lay dead here today, a victim of heart trouble.

The originator of the fantastic "trans-continental bunion derby," the man who lured Harold (Red) Grange, Suzanne Lenglan, Mary K. Browne and a host of other athletic stars from amateur fields into professional sports, died suddenly at his home late yesterday.

Lexington Breaks Rams' County Winning Streak

Ill Coach Absent as Madison Bows By 24-22 Count; Lucas, Bellville Win League Games.

A DRAMATIC basketball story could have been written last night had the suburban Madison high school cagers trimmed Lexington for their ninth straight Richland county league victory.

With Al Fendrick, their mentor, ill at home, the Rams could have won one for "Coach," but they were not up to the task, and, consequently, suffered their first setback in the league.

The victory was registered by Coach Johnny Reese's up-and-coming Lexington Minutemen on the Lexington hardwood by a 24-22 count, and the game was just as tight as the score indicates.

Led by Dick Roberts, who is performing in great style at the center berth, the Minutemen, unmoved by the Rams' impressive record, staged a spectacular second period rally to jump into a lead they never released.

With Roberts doing a splendid job of rebounding and connecting on clever long shots, Lexington registered its fifth league triumph of the season to hold on to fourth place in the race.

Although defeated, Madison retains a game and a half lead over Butler, idle last night.

The Rams hopped into a 7 to 4 lead in the initial frame, but saw the determined Lexington cagers outscore them to gain a 14 to 11 advantage at the intermission. And although Madison outscored the winners, 9 to 8, in the third, the Reese-coached cagers went into the fourth period leading 22 to 20.

The clubs tallied only two points apiece in the final chapter.

Dick Shaffer, Lexington's midget forward, played a brilliant floor game for the winners.

Roberts set the individual tempo with 12 points, with Bill Wilkins of Madison trailing him with 11 points.

Madison drubbed the Lexington seconds, 22 to 9, in the prelim.

Ontario Jolted By Lucas, 35 to 24.

ONTARIO high lost ground in its battle with Lexington for fourth place in the Richland county league race last night by dropping a 35 to 24 decision to the high-scoring Lucas high combine.

Coach Orville Kibler's outfit, playing without the services of Hudson and Hannan, varsity forwards, held the upper hand in the early minutes of the contest, but was unable to stop the scoring tactics of Tom Greulich. The defeat left Ontario two games behind Lexington.

The Lucas forward flipped 15 points through the nets to lead his team to its fifth league triumph.

Lucas found itself trailing, 5-4, in the opening quarter, but rallied in the second to take a lead that was never seriously threatened. The winners iced the contest in the final frame when they outscored the Warriors, 14-5.

The Alfred Axe-coached quintet held a 13 to 10 advantage at the intermission and led 21 to 16 at the end of the third chapter.

Matt Hager led Ontario with nine points, with Bob Crawford adding seven to the Lucas cause. Matt and Henry Hager were the only two Ontario players to collect two goals apiece against the sterling Lucas defense.

Ontario smothered the Lucas seconds, 21 to 9, in the prelim.

Bellville Passes Union Courtmen.

BELLVILLE — Coach Royd Hodge's Bellville high quintet downed Union, 24 to 19, here last night to register its second Richland county league victory of the season.

The triumph enabled the Bluejays to climb into fifth place in the race, a game ahead of the last-place Union team.

Bellville, with Howard Hamilton and Bill Martin pacing the attack, grabbed the lead in the opening frame and then sewed up the contest with a scoring splurge in the final quarter.

The Bluejays went ahead, 6-5, in the first period, 12 to 11, at the half, and 15 to 13 in the third chapter.

Hamilton and Martin tallied nine points apiece to share scoring honors for the evening, while Crevling topped the invaders with five points.

The Union reserves edged Bellville, 18 to 16, in a thrilling overtime affray.

CRESTLINE—A thrilling last-period scoring spree enabled the Crestline high's League of Six Nations representatives to hand a favored Sandusky St. Mary's quintet a 28 to 27 setback in a nip-and-tuck non-league tussle here last night. It was St. Mary's first defeat in nine starts.

The Crestline outfit, smarting from the drubbing suffered at the hands of the Madison Rams Tuesday night, rallied in the third to knot the score at 20-all and then outpointed the invaders, 8-7, to win.

St. Mary's jumped into a 10-6 lead in the opening period and was ahead at the half, 15 to 12.

Shiloh Cagers Gain On Idle Plymouth Club

Defeat New Haven to Break Tie With Tigers.

SHILOH — The Shiloh High basketball team today again is in first place in the torrid Twin-Valley league race.

The Drummer Boys, although weakened by the absence of two regulars, defeated New Haven, 24 to 19, here last night, to gain a half-game lead over the idle Plymouth high team. A "flu" epidemic kept Plymouth idle.

Bob Moser, the team's leading scorer, and Center Dean Dawson, were on the sidelines because of illness, but Shiloh spurted into an early lead it was able to hold to the final gun.

Shiloh grabbed a 7-3 advantage in the opening period, led 12 to 8 at halftime and went into the final frame leading by a 22 to 13 count.

New Haven outscored the Drummer Boys, 6 to 2, in the last stanza, but lacked the power to overcome the Shiloh advantage.

Deanna Durbin

Although you won't find it in a book of synonyms, the movie going public has made the name "Deanna Durbin" synonomous with "lovely." Deanna goes through the throes of "first love" in "That Certain Age," falling in love with a war correspondent who is her father's friend. Jackie Cooper, who has grown into long pants is the "other man" in Deanna's life. The picture will be shown at the Ritz for three days, starting Sunday.

WORCESTER, Mass. — (INS) — The Soviet has gone in for "grinding" in a big way. What was believed to be the largest grinding machine ever manufactured was shipped recently to Russia. THEATERS

"Idiot's Delight."

A DISTINGUISHED cast was chosen to make the film version of Robert E. Sherwood's stage play, "Idiot's Delight," which opens today at the Ohio for a six-day engagement. This story of a song and dance man and a phoney countess, who found themselves when they were held at a frontier town between France and Switzerland at the beginning of the World war, with bombs tearing apart the world around them, is enacted by Clark Gable and Norma Shearer as the hoofer and the countess, Edward Arnold, Joseph Schildkraut, Burgess Meredith, Laura Hope Crews, Pat Patterson, Paula Stone and Joan Marsh. Arnold plays the munitions maker and Meredith is the pacifist, while Schildkraut has the role of the frontier guard. For the first time Miss Shearer is seen as a blond, while Gable executes some fancy dance steps.

* * *

"Devil's Island."

Held up for some time because of France's proposal to do away with her penal colony, the picture "Devil's Island" has been released since that country decided to retain the fearsome prison. It opens its Madison theater engagement tonight in a midnight matinee. The picture shows Boris Karloff in the role of a modern Dreyfus, a surgeon sentenced to the Island because he had given treatment to a wounded rebel. The methods of torture, of brutality used on the Island, which is considered a leftover from a savage age, are worked into the plot James Stephenson plays the brutal commandant of the prison.

"Long Shot."

This is a story of horse racing and of the Santa Anita handicap in particular. The Santa Anita is now the richest stake race in the world, offering a purse of $100,000 to the winner. It is the winning of this race around which the story moves, and a thoroughbred horse plays a major role, Gordon Jones, Marcia Hunt, C. Henry Gordon and others are in the cast. "Crime School," with the Dead End Kids, Humphry Bogart and Gale Page is the second feature for the Majestic bill for two days, Sunday and Monday.

* * *

"That Certain Age."

Deanna Durbin, one of the loveliest of Hollywood's lovelies, will be the attraction at the Ritz for three days, starting Sunday. In her latest picture she is shown in the throes of her first love affair, with Melvyn Douglas as the object of her affections. Jackie Cooper is the "other man" in Deanna's life and her parents are played by Irene Rich and John Halliday. Of equal interest on the program is "Rich Man, Poor Girl," with Robert Young, Ruth Hussey and Lew Ayers.

* * *

"Mother Carey's Chickens."

Kate Douglas Wiggin's heart warming story of the Widow Carey and her small brood who overcome every barrier that ill luck lays in their path and ride off the clouds into sunny weather, comes to the Park in picturized version for the first half of the week. Anne Shirley, Ruby Keeler, James Ellison, Walter Brennan, Fay Bainter and other favorites are in the well remembered roles. "The Mysterious Miss X" is a comedy mystery, with Michael Whalen and Mary Hart.

GOATS BECOME GOATS

UKIAH, Cal.—(U P)—Goats were made the goat of an animal farm experiment here. The Spring brothers installed a goat ranch near here, but when the goats failed to make it a paying investment, they turned it into a mink ranch. However, they are still raising enough goats to provide food for their carnivorous fur bearers.

Every Wheel of Every Train Is Frequently Inspected!

A.B.C. Report

Every Advertiser Should Have Our A. B. C. Report!

Daily, advertisers are being presented various advertising schemes which are usually worthless because they lack that important element — CIRCULATION! Study our A. B. C. Report (the latest issue is FREE for the asking) and you will readily see why it pays to place your advertising in this publication.

RAILROADS do not consider a casual once-in-a-while inspection of "rolling stock" sufficient. Notice how, at every principal stop, skilled mechanics carefully check not only the airbrakes, but the wheels . . . that's done for YOUR PROTECTION . . . a faulty "journal box" may run dry and cause delay or accident!

From long experience, the railroads know that frequent inspection pays . . . that what is all right now may be all wrong soon . . . thousands of accidents have been avoided through the alertness of our railroads in insisting upon FREQUENT INSPECTION!

In the advertising field, it is impractical to depend upon obsolete or carelessly prepared circulation statements. That is why national advertisers and advertising agencies insist that "skilled mechanics"—the expert accountants of the A. B. C.—make frequent inspection of publication circulation!

They know that the FACTS in an Audit Bureau of Circulations Report are TIMELY and ACCURATE—that they can depend upon the A. B. C. to eliminate boastful claims or misleading figures—that members of the A. B. C. are cooperating to give advertisers TRUTH about circulation! YOU, too, will benefit by using the A. B. C. Reports as YOUR guide in selecting advertising media!

ABC — Audit Bureau of Circulations, Incorporated

Always Demand an A. B. C. Report!

Play safe! Know exactly how many people will read your advertising, whether they are people you want to reach, whether they are engaged in the right line of business. These important FACTS are supplied in an A. B. C. Report and you run the risk of waste if you do not depend upon A. B. C. as your guide to honest circulation value!

RECOVERY PUSH STIMULATED BY BRISK TRADING

Steels, Utilities, Rails, Motors And Aircrafts Prominent In Rally.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The rallying urge returned to the stock market today and leading steels, utilities, rails, motors, aircrafts, coppers and specialties were bid up fractions to more than points.

The revival was accompanied by much brisker dealings than have been witnessed recently, with the turnover for the two hours approximately 600,000 shares.

Stimulating the recovery push, brokers said, was the fact selling yesterday dried up to almost nothing.

Much of Friday's speculative hesitancy, attributed to fears of what Mussolini might say in a speech scheduled for today, seemed to have abated as doubts arose as to whether Il Duce would speak at all.

Steels were aided by predictions next week's mill operating rate would at least maintain the output percentage registered this week.

Talk of some "good news" in the offing for the utilities spurred the power stocks.

Prominent shares on the rise included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, United Aircraft, Sperry, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, North American, Public Service of N. J., Anaconda, Westinghouse, General Electric, DuPont, Santa Fe and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Dies, Backed 344 to 35, Maps Foreign Propaganda Quiz

HOUSE VOTES CONFIDENCE IN 'ISMS' INQUIRY

Chamber Approves Request to Extend Investigation Into Un-American Activities.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Backed by a top-heavy vote of confidence from the house, Chairman Dies (D., Tex.) of the committee on un-American activities proposed today to ferret out sources of "foreign propaganda that may get us into war."

The Texan said he would recommend that the committee divide its work into three departments, one of which would investigate foreign propaganda.

"We should look into this very important matter of foreign propaganda as it relates to war," Dies asserted, "find out its origin, and determine where the money to finance it comes from and how much is being spent."

The other two divisions, he suggested, should investigate Communist and Fascist activities.

Vote 344 to 35.

The house decided yesterday to extend the committee a year. Dies said he expected the accounts committee to recommend next week that the house vote $100,000 to finance the year's work.

Vociferous opponents fought continuation of the committee with charges that it had been unfair and impartial and had "smeared" innocent persons. The vote was 344 to 35.

Dies admitted the committee had erred at times. But he told the house it would recognize those mistakes and "do everything within its power to continue a fearless, honest and complete investigation of what is a definite danger."

To critics who had contended the committee had attacked the New Deal, he retorted that it would not have sought the co-operation of government agencies if that had been its desire.

Through the hour's debate was threaded a clear hint to the committee, even from those who favored renewing it, that many members disapproved some of its procedure, the nature of its evidence and the type of testimony it permitted.

Dies told reporters, however, he was sure any grounds for criticism could be eliminated.

Says No Immediate Revision of Auto Sales Tax In Sight

Although proposed changes in the sales tax set-up concerning automobile sales will be discussed at the state automobile dealers convention in Columbus next week, Ralph E. Moorhead, Mansfield dealer who will be in charge of a legislative committee discussion, warned prospective purchasers today against expecting any immediate revision of the present system.

"No legislation has been introduced as yet, and no policy definitely formulated by the association," Moorhead said, "we feel, of course, that the law should be changed, but we have not decided on exactly what should be done.

"Therefore, no bill has been introduced in the legislature, which would have to enact any changes, and there is no prospect that changes can be made in the law for some time to come, and certainly not in time to affect taransactions for several months."

The association meets in Columbus Tuesday. Members claim automobile purchasers are unfairly taxed by being forced to pay the sales tax on the retail value of a car on which a trade-in is made and believe the used car allowance should be deducted before the sales tax is imposed.

'TAG DAYS' NEAR

1939 Auto Licenses to Go on Sale In State March 1.

Auto license plates, which are expected to bring $24,000,000 into the state treasury this year, will be placed on sale March 1 and must be displayed on all cars by April 1, Frank Beverstock, deputy registrar for Mansfield, has been notified by Cy W. Wallace, new state registrar of motor vehicles.

The new tags, which have blue letters and numerals on a white background, have been completed by the Ohio penitentiary prisoners. About 120 men were employed for eight months in making the plates.

This year's tags are made of 24-gauge steel and are one-third heavier than the 1938 tags which were necessarily thin enough to take the imprint of the covered wagon, symbol of Ohio's Northwest Territory celebration, the registrar pointed out.

Depending on the car's horsepower, license will cost from $7 to $16, while fees for trucks and trailers are scaled according to weight.

GIRL HURT IN COTTAGE BLAST

Lights Match, Gas Explosion Burns Face and Hair; House Damaged.

(By Staff Correspondent)

LOUDONVILLE— Miss Helen Getz, daughter of Mrs. Ella Getz, is suffering with severe burns about the face and shoulders, suffered Thursday when an explosion in the family's country cottage, six miles south of here, blew out the gable end of the house and damaged the furnishings by fire.

Mrs. Getz and her daughter drove to the cottage Thursday and found that it had been burglarized. The gas stove in the kitchen had been disconnected, but the gas had not been shut off and the house was filled with fumes.

The two women drove back to a filling station to notify Sheriff Dale Hammond, and Ralph Mapes, station attendant, returned to the cottage with them to shut off the gas.

While he and Mrs. Getz were in the kitchen, Miss Getz went upstairs to check missing articles and struck a match. There was an instant explosion in the upper rooms where fumes had collected. The end of the house was blown out and the girl was enveloped in a sheet of flame as she tumbled backward down the stairs.

Mapes and Mrs. Getz smothered the flames but not before her hair and face had been badly burned. They then put out the flames after bed clothing in the upper rooms had been burned.

Hammond said today that there were no clues to the identity of the burglars, and expressed the opinion that they had evidently planned to come back for the stove.

TROOPS BATTER LAST DEFENSE LINE ON RIVER

Franco's Army Drives Foes Into Trap; Government's Forces Doomed.

(By United Press)

PERPIGNAN, FRENCH-SPANISH FRONTIER—The Spanish nationalists, driving the Republican army into a trap along the French frontier and the sea, occupied Gerona today and battered at the last republican defense line along the river Ter.

Gerona is 52 miles northeast of Barcelona and 34 miles from the French border. It had been selected as the temporary Republican capital hardly a week ago.

March In Two Columns.

The river Ter runs from east to west, roughly 30 to 35 miles from the frontier. The nationalists were driving in two main columns, one along the highway near the coast which runs north through Gerona to Figueras and the border, and the other along the inland highway to the west which runs north from Vich, already captured.

Loyalist government leaders had begun to evacuate Figueras, only 15 miles from the French frontier, to seek a safer haven. United Press dispatches direct from loyalist territory said the fall of Gerona—selected as the temporary Republican capital hardly a week ago—was imminent and that the key city of Seo De Urgel, in northwestern Catalonia, might be lost today.

Loyalist press dispatches said that "hundreds" of bodies lay in the ruins of Figue. As after hours of almost unceasing airplane bombardments. United Press dispatches put the unofficial estimate of casualties at 50 killed and 200 wounded.

All that was certain was that the nationalists were advancing on every front, that there was no sign that they could be stopped short of the frontier, and that catastrophe threatened the loyalist army in Catalonia.

GIRLS IN TEST

High Students Taking Exams In Citizenship Today.

Six Senior high school girls, from six different schools in this county, took part today in a good citizenship contest which was held at the courthouse under the auspices of the Jared Mansfield and Mary Washington chapters of the D. A. R. Boyd Robinson, county superintendent of schools, conducted the examinations.

The contests, or examinations, are a part of the D. A. R.'s national program of Americanism and good citizenship. The girls taking the examinations are chosen for their dependability, service, leadership and patriotism.

The reward for the girl making the highest grade in each state is a five-day expense-paid trip to Washington, D. C., during the National D. A. R. Congress. The girls holding the five highest grades in each state will be sent as guests to the state convention in Toledo in March.

The six taking the examination were Maxine Hartman, Senior high; Elma Hinckley, Lucas high; Bertha Schweir, Madison; Doris Dawson, Shiloh; Charlotte Hughes, Union, and Annabelle Yarger, Bellville.

Not That It Matters

Marx Would Not Know Today's Communists For Followers of His Ideas

—By JANE WILLIAMS

WHEN Karl Marx issued his Communist Manifesto in London in 1847, he certainly never dreamed that his theories, and economical and political philosophies would get such a kicking around as they have in the current decade. He couldn't have guessed that the word "Communist" would come to mean anything from a water-front loafer to a president.

But then you see Herr Marx had pretty definite ideas about Communism—a political plan in which the state was everything and the individual nothing; in which everyone worked but no one had anything—except the state. He believed in progressive income taxes, free education, compulsory labor, the abolishment of child labor, and the proletariat group taking over all production and operating it "for the good of all." Some of his theories are being worked out by the United States government, and most of them are in operation in Russia, Germany and Italy.

That, very briefly, is Marxian Communism, and a Communist is one who subscribes to his philosophies, whether it is called Socialism, Nazism, Fascism or what have you. There isn't a nickel's worth of difference between them.

But today a Communist is merely a guy who doesn't agree with you.

* * *

NO greater example of the pig-headed intolerance that is gripping America today can be found than the act of the Daughters of the Confederacy this week in attempting to prevent Marian Anderson from singing in Washington.

If these southern daughters don't want to hear the "greatest voice of the century" because it comes from a colored girl that's their business, and if they want to sit at home on their dignified antiques and fat while she sings, that is merely exercising the right to personal liberty. But when they attempt to prevent others from hearing her—then you have the first class makings of the same thing that is sweeping Europe to destruction.

* * *

THE same thing is true of the press and the radio. A free press, free air-lanes and free speech are guarantees against dictatorships and totalitarian states—yet there are many people who will insist that neither newspapers nor radio have the right to say anything with which they do not agree.

If America ever becomes a Communistic or Nazi country, it won't be because of agents from Moscow or Berlin, but because of the intolerance, the bigotry, and the stupidity of our own people who are hell-bent on telling the other fellow how to live and what to think.

* * *

INCIDENTALLY, I failed the individuals at the Anderson concert t'other night who were interested in the age of the singer, because she is strictly feminine on that point and refuses to give it. However, if you remember your second grade arithmetic—

She was in her first twenties in 1925 when she won the Lewisohn Stadium contest.

Just like a woman to refuse to give her age and then give you facts that can be added up to it.

* * *

WHILE too many groups, interests and individuals seem intent on tearing down everything that it has taken years to build up, it's heartening to know that others still keep right on building.

Read a letter this week from a girl who was "adopted" by Delta Theta Tau sorority when she was paroled from the Marysville Reformatory. They met her at the prison door, asked her what she would like most to be and then made it possible for her to be that. They dressed her, paid her way through a school of cosmetology, gave her money on which to live and then got her a job in one of the smartest beauty salons west of New York.

Now she is rehabilitated physically, mentally and morally, and is independent economically. And the sorority will "adopt" another paroled girl this month.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Nazis Find Hitler Has Given Them Bolshevism To Protect Them From It

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Most American writers who have inspected Hitlerism in Germany have agreed, on returning here, that the prize suckers of the plot were the German capitalists, business men and aristocrats who thought Hitler would protect them and treat them with special kindness.

The Bolsheviki of this and other countries at first seemed to think so, too. Possibly, they honestly did think so, for a Bolo might conceivably be honest by mistake, and Hitler developed his system by degrees, borrowing from Bolshevism as he went along.

But, after they had boosted Hitler to power, the German princes of privilege discovered that he had given them Bolshevism as a protection against Bolshevism. It was home-made Bolshevism, but the ingredients were the same.

Yet, because Hitler constantly screamed against Bolshevism and called his racket National Socialism, most of us here were slow to detect the sameness. Moreover, our own Bolsheviki denounced as deliberate substitution and dishonest practice every attempt to show that one product was as good, or as bad, as the other.

German capitalists are allowed to think they control their property as long as they do not attempt to exercise control or take down profits beyond the amounts fixed by the state.

* * *

They just manage the property. And only recently, in a story about the final extinction of the officer corps, Mr. Tolischus of the New York Times reported that an officer now enjoys no social superiority with his rank. He just has a better job in the army than his subordinates. In Germany the nominal owners or controllers of property live better than the common toilers, but the same is true in Russia of those who perform duties of corresponding importance for the state.

The status of religion is no different in either country in any important respect, for our Bolos now tell us that one may go to church in Russia if he can find a church and can take the punishment, while, in Germany, Christ is regarded as an internationalist, and church leaders have been persecuted, tossed into prison and even tossed out of windows, in periods of healthy reaction of the Nazi spirit.

Moreover, Hitler hasn't fully developed his anti-church policy, and, by the time he is through, it probably will be just as hard to find a church in Germany as in Russia.

* * *

Every institution which the Bolsheviki praise as a virtue of the Bolo system in Russia is duplicated by Hitler's Bolshevism, and it may be observed that if the Russians would adopt anti-Semitism, or if the Germans would drop it, the German Bolsheviki and the Russians could fall into each other's arms, crying "Brother!"

It makes our Bolsheviki very angry to be told and to see it proved that the thing which they claim to hate with such nobility is, with differences too trifling for serious consideration, the very thing that they profess and try to sell us. It angers the Nazi-Fascists to be told the same thing, for the same reason.

FORMER TEACHER SAILS TODAY TO BECOME MISSIONARY IN INDIA

When the liner Berengaria sailed from New York today, a former Mansfield school teacher, Miss Hazel Painter, was among the passengers. Miss Painter embarked for India where she is to serve seven years as a missionary from St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church of Mansfield.

Miss Painter will arrive in Raipur, Central Province, India, about March 15 where she will be stationed temporarily. She will join a corps of 25 missionaries, doctors and evangelists in the province. The Evangelical and Reformed church has supported missionaries in India for the past 22 years and Miss Painter is the third missionary to be sent to India by St. John's church.

Rev. Michael Eckert, who assisted Rev. Theo Schmale and Rev. Paul H. Saleste in the commissioning services at St. John's church last Sunday, is the pastor of Miss Painter's home church in Canal Winchester, O. Miss Painter was a resident of Mansfield for the past three years while teaching at the Newman street school.

Before coming to Mansfield to teach, Miss Painter lived in Cody Colony, India, for five years, where she taught the children of missionaries. Miss Painter received her educational training at Heidelberg college in Tiffin, O. Recently she completed a course of study at the Missionary Institute in New York City.

'OPEN SPACES' COMMON NOW

Traffic Enforcement Drive Shows Definite Results at End of Second Week.

"proved that it was the downtown office workers that were 'hogging' the parking space on the city streets."

Regardless, there was plenty to be found. A trip down any of the streets showed long portions of curb unoccupied and around Central park which has served as a "garage" for many, there were as few as six automobiles parked at one time during mid-afternoon.

Merchants acclaimed the program "a success" and "just what we had needed for a long time."

They asserted that more available parking space now allowed persons on a shopping tour to stop nearer their stores and still have plenty of time to make their purchases.

Results of the enforcement campaign also showed up on the police records. The monthly report of Police Chief Meade K. Bates revealed that collections from traffic tickets during January were boosted to $285 as compared with a monthly total of $118 in December.

Bates said that if the traffic campaign bore fruits in the form of increased revenues, he would ask city council to consider the purchase of a new motorcycle to replace the present machine that is five years old.

U. S. Sends World's Biggest Bomber On Mission To Chile

LANGLEY FIELD, Va. —(U.P.)— A U. S. army plane—the world's biggest bomber—took off early today for a 4,400 mile flight to Chile carrying medical supplies for earthquake victims.

The flight combined a mission of mercy and training for emergency war conditions. Announcement of plans were not announced until yesterday so that preparations could be made on a training basis simulating war conditions.

With a crew of five officers and six enlisted men, the 30-ton bomber left here at 6:33 a. m.

Major C. V. Haynes was in command of the flight. He said that weather conditions would determine the plane's route and that if they were normal the flight would follow a course to Panama, Lima and Santiago, flying down the western South American coastal plain.

Haynes expected to make the flight to Panama within 12 hours, arriving there at about 6 p. m., (EST).

COLD LESSENS FLOOD THREAT

also was placed on probation for three years. Both pleaded guilty to indictments for assaulting Sam Anderson, Mansfield, with intent to rob him.

Judge Huston also placed Paul rising at 8 a. m. and at Ironton the gauge read 51.

A midnight freeze at Martins Ferry eased the tension of residents as the runoff into the Ohio was practically halted. The gauge there was 26.3 rising at .3 feet an hour.

Perils 981-Mile Front.

From Pittsburgh to Cairo, the 981 miles from the confluence of the Monongahela and Allegheny to the Mississippi, the warning was sounded as the gathered snow and rain of a score of watersheds poured into the Ohio.

In some sections the little streams, always subject to "flash" floods, already were receding, with their burden on its way to the Ohio.

Officials hoped to hold the toll far below that of previous floods, even if the river should top the predictions made so far. These indicated crests of three to seven feet above flood stage at most points, which would wet the lowlands but do comparatively little damage.

People in the valley knew a little more this time than two years ago. They had a little better protection, providing by the always slow-moving machinery of necessary legislation and appropriations.

Worst Since 1773.

Just two years ago they were caught in the worst the Ohio had ever done in its recorded flood history dating to 1773. Today they had disaster relief committees to organize relief, refugee, and rehabilitation work before the crisis.

Even though the indicated danger was little more than that of a "good raise" as compared with the 1937 flood, officials everywhere detailed assignments to volunteers—just in case.

In Portsmouth Legion members patrolled the 62-feet floodwall. The governors of West Virginia and Kentucky ordered state agencies to stand by.

All the predicted crests were far and safely under the records. Pittsburgh, for instance, had 46 feet in the St. Patrick's day flood of 1936. Point Pleasant had more than 60 in 1937, Huntington 69, Cincinnati 80, Louisville 57, and Cairo, 60, just below the top sandbags on its floodwall.

Point Pleasant, W. Va., located where the Kanawha enters the Ohio, was the scene of intensive preparatory activity. For two centuries the city has borne the brunt of every flood and officials took every precaution to protect lives and property.

At Pittsburgh U. S. Meteorologist W. S. Brotzman took note of steadily dropping temperatures by revising earlier predictions of a 30-foot crest to 27.

Drive carefully tomorrow—Monday's paper will tell about some of those who didn't.

A New Jersey man died of a heart attack after winning on a slot machine—not realizing that the machine was out of order.

And to think that the federal jurist, who has just resigned under charges, was for many years addressed as "Your Honor"!

Start Clean-Up of Ohio Liquor Traffic.

DESPITE announced intention of the present state administration to clean-up the retail liquor traffic in Ohio, it may be doubted if this can be successfully done without considerable revision of liquor laws and board regulations.

Some improvement may be accomplished by reduction of licensees, adoption of sterner policies toward violators and banning of gambling devices from beer and liquor places, but there is a basic weakness in present liquor laws that must eventually be corrected.

This is the feature which legalizes entertainment and promiscuous dancing in liquor places which pay for a special-privilege license.

While the law prohibits admission of minors to these places, it is common knowledge, especially among parents, that little attention is paid to enforcement of this restriction and that a number of children of high school age are frequenters of some of the city's night spots where liquor is sold, with sometimes questionable shows as the lure to youthful curiosity.

It can be confidently asserted that the much maligned old-time saloon provided highly desirable environment for young people, as compared with present-day conditions in the retail liquor traffic in Ohio.

The investigation already started in larger cities of the state should, as quickly as possible, be extended to smaller cities as well, so that correction of existing evils will not be long delayed.

Double Taxation In Auto Sales.

CONTENTION of automobile dealers, and motorists in general, that present sales tax practice in car sales involving a trade-in constitutes double taxation, seems well founded.

Sales tax has once been paid on the used car, and must again be paid by the purchaser of that car—yet the new-car buyer is required to pay sales tax on the full purchase price of the car.

It appears entirely reasonable that the basis of sales tax assessed against the new-car buyer should be the difference between purchase price and old-car allowance.

The retail sales tax law should be recognized and accepted as a legitimate producer of needed revenues—not as a gyp game.

One or the Other, Not Both.

WITHDRAWAL of Tyrone Power from radio, in order to devote his entire attention to motion pictures, in which he has been making an outstanding success, will probably be regarded by many as a too-long-delayed move toward at least partial divorcement of these two fields of entertainment.

Recent trend of radio entertainment has been toward concentration on "big name" screen personalities, with consequent "plugging" of pictures to an extent that has become rather ridiculous.

There has also resulted a possibility for salary build-up beyond reasonable needs, while other aspirants to jobs in the radio field are being kept out of employment.

While deprived of the $5,000 a week radio earnings, it seems entirely likely that Tyrone will be able to go along quite comfortably on what he earns from motion pictures—at least while he retains his present vogue.

Home Accidents Took Heaviest Toll.

HOME accidents, not traffic, took the heaviest toll of lives in 1938, according to the completed annual report of the National Safety Council.

For the first time in ten years accidents in homes outran the nation's traffic toll, which was almost 8,000 under the 1937 figures.

Most of the home fatalities--25,000 of them—resulted from falls. Burns caused 8,000 deaths during the year and drownings 7,000.

Injuries disabled 9,200,000 persons during 1938, which was 700,000 fewer than in 1937. The year's economic loss from accidental deaths and injuries is estimated at more than three billion dollars.

From which it can be seen that the accident prevention problem is broader in scope than reduction of traffic hazards —with greater carefulness in homes an important element.

Back to Church.

TIMES that try men's souls tend to revive religion. Dr. Oscar E. Maurer of New Haven, Conn., moderator of the general council of Congregational churches, says:

"The world crises we have passed through have brought wide increases in church attendance and a newly burning interest in God. People who five or six years ago were convinced that the church was on the skids have returned. They want more faith themselves, and they want their ministers to speak out with increasing authority."

Such a trend is noticeable almost everywhere in America. The empty churches may be filled again.

Store Without a Sign.

A STORY is brought back from Key West, Fla., that there is a business man down there who won't have a sign on his store, because if he put out a sign he'd get more business, and then he'd need somebody to help him, and he doesn't want to hire anybody.

While this sounds almost unbelievable, it must be kept in mind that there is still an occasional merchant, even in progressive Ohio cities, who tries to get along without newspaper advertising.

And Gracie will have to carefully avoid saying anything that might sound like "Smuggle up a little closer."

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Anybody who thinks it is fun legislating for this rich and enterprising democracy can obtain an earful of education in practically no time at all if he will drop in at the right places.

Up comes Senator Smathers of New Jersey to protest in the senate any reduction in the relief appropriation.

"If we desire to practice real economy, let us stop handing out $266,000,000 a year to the cotton farmers," he shouted. "Let us stop handing out $50,000,000 a year to sugar farmers. Let us stop handing out $60,000,000 a year to wheat farmers, $70,000,000 a year to corn growers, and $300,000,000 a year to build schools and university buildings. Let us stop spending billions on dams."

New Jersey, he said, needed relief money most. It has no cotton, no corn, no sugar beets, but hundreds of hungry unemployed.

Even before he could sit down Senator Connally of Texas (they grow cotton in Texas, as you remember) was on his feet to protest the idea of cutting out aid to cotton growers.

That is only a sample. You speak to Senator Adams of Colorado about the reciprocal trade act.

* * *

The States Chime In.

"They want to give Iowa farmers an opportunity to sell hams and bacon to Cuba, so they lower the duty on Cuban sugar so Cubans will have more money to buy Iowa products. But Colorado grows sugar, and her market is lost. They let cattle come in from Canada so Canada will buy other American products. But it hurts the market for Colorado cattle. They let English woollen goods in so New England and the South in turn can find a market for their goods. But it hurts the Colorado sheep industry. We want some reciprocity for Colorado too."

And the various states act on their own account to add to the business of dividing the country against itself.

California was first to find that under a fancy interpretation of the 21st amendment, it was possible to embargo beer, wine or whisky made in other states. The amendment, seeking to protect states which wanted to remain dry, stated that liquor could not be shipped into a state in violation of its laws. Since then California, Indiana, Michigan, and a host of other states have put restrictions on "foreign beer" (made in some other state) so as to protect the home market for home-production.

And the supreme court has upheld such legislation.

* * *

What Next?

Trucking companies hauling automobiles from Michigan across the country have been struggling for years against a baffling structure of laws designed to prohibit automobile dealers in one state from reaching across borders to grab the business of rival leaders in adjacent states.

Some states stop all automobiles at the border to tax them for the gasoline they have in their tanks. Several states, with real or fancied fear of plant diseases, have embargoed importation (from another state) of fruits or vegetables which might interfere with that produced in the home state.

Will it get to a point where a person wanting to go from one state to another will have to fly over the border—or burrow under it?

DOING THE LION'S ROARING

World Trade Is Basis of Conflict

—By MORGAN M. BEATTY

WASHINGTON — When Adolf Hitler read the riot act to the United States in the reichstag the other day, he was challenging the democratic nations to a long-term struggle for supremacy in the field of world trade.

At least observers here of the world economic scene view it that way.

They take the view that the German leader has labelled Uncle Sam his Economic Enemy No. 1. They don't think he did it because this nation is actually his greatest trade rival, but because the Hull agreements accenting trade equality offer obstacles to the German idea of trade treaties made to serve the needs of the state instead of individuals.

At the same time the richest, and therefore the strongest advocate of democracy, offered to Hitler a strong contrast to illustrate his recital of the case of the totalitarian "have-nots" vs. the democratic "have" nations.

In a casual sort of way the trade struggle has been developing ever since the World war. The first sign of its coming was the ascent of Lenin's and Stalin's communism, inaugurating, as it did, economic theories previously untested by any important world power.

After Lenin and Stalin, Mussolini burst upon the Italian scene, limiting private capitalism, and setting up the so-called corporate state. After Mussolini came Hitler and state socialism.

* * *

The State's the Thing.

THESE phenomena of government are variously understood and as variously defined. But one element stands out. The men who established these systems succeeded by their own boast, because they molded the individual to the will of the all-powerful state.

Meanwhile, beginning in 1929, the depression sapped the vitality of the democracies, and Japan joined the totalitarian group as a "have-not" nation on the make. These two developments began the process of balancing the scales between the two forces.

As the experts view the world picture in retrospect, some kind of conflict was inevitable in the field of trade, since trade is controlled by the state in the totalitarian group, and by individuals in the democratic nations.

Rich Uncle Sam and poverty-ridden Germany unwittingly supplied the makings for the economic war as far back as 1933.

With little gold to offer for goods, Germany instituted the so-called barter system. Any nation trading with Germany is obliged to accept goods in payment.

About the same time, Trader Hull, as secretary of state for President Roosevelt, set up his reciprocal trade program as a device to increase trade by spreading concessions in a sort of round robin of treaties.

* * *

How Struggle Developed.

THUS the lines were drawn between two theories, one blasting open trade channels, the other restricting them to specially arranged routes.

The struggle developed like this:

1 The Hull plan guaranteed equality of treatment to all nations that signed up, with the single exception of Germany. The Reich was barred on the ground that Germany was the lone big power refusing to co-operate.

2 Germany selected Latin America as a special field for expansion, and by 1937 had risen from third place in Latin American trade to second, replacing Great Britain behind the leading United States.

3 Early last December the United States signed reciprocal trade treaties with the United Kingdom and Canada, bringing to 19 the nations within the American trade equality orbit. Many of these nations were in coveted Latin America.

4 Only a few weeks ago, President Roosevelt hinted in his annual message to congress that there were measures short of war to combat aggressor states. Since Germany gets no benefits from Hull trade treaties, he may have been referring to them.

5 Among the little discussed actions of the recent Pan-American conference in Lima, Peru, was the passage of a resolution that took the form of a kind of economic Monroe Doctrine. It endorsed the Hull program in broad terms, stressing equally of treatment among traders. It was adopted unanimously.

Add up all these developments, and you have the probable reason why Hitler boiled over at the United States, and advised the world that Germany's trade with Latin American nations was no business of ours.

That's the first definite notice that Hitler has taken of the Hull program, and to the experts it means more trouble is brewing.

No question now but that the economic world war of the century is on in deadly earnest.

Does Art Need to Smell?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

DOES Art need to smell? Thousands of decent, serious-minded Americans would like to know. They don't put it just that way, of course. But that's the gist of their timid and bewildered queries.

Mothers, most of them. Intelligent, tolerant, modern mothers who want to "keep in touch with the right things" for their children's sake as well as their own—

But how can they know what IS "right"? Take, f'rinstance, that play Mrs. Roosevelt criticized—the life of Oscar Wilde. Why, Nice Women didn't even know about such things a few years ago. Somehow it doesn't seem just right to have things like that around for Innocent Little Children to run into! But—maybe they're old-fashioned. Maybe it's necessary to write about such things—if you wanta make a book strong. They aren't writers. They don't know. They wish I'd tell them.

I'll gladly try. For it certainly irks me to see trusting folk bamboozled by the floods of fakey filth which masquerade today as Art. Admitted—I'm no authority on Literature. But I've been whittling at the job long enough to give at least a few trustworthy facts. So, in case my two cents will help, here it is—with enthusiasm, friends!

Does Art need to smell? IT DOES NOT!

Indeed, its very smelliness casts doubt upon its excellence. Filth is the easiest of all mediums by which one may attract attention. Any stupid little amateur can write Dirty Words in order to appear a Great, Grim Realist . . . but it takes a truly great and experienced spirit to speak convincingly of quiet, gentle things.

One shouldn't make the mistake, however, of assuming that a thing is trash, merely because it describes unpleasant realities . . . or because Nice People didn't know about them 20 years ago. Nice People should have known about them and are paying a tragic price because they didn't. But that doesn't necessarily mean that the place to learn such things is on the public stage or magazine page. There IS a Medical Journal. And an Encyclopedia Britannica.

Nor should one assume that Great Art must be pared down to the proprieties of infants. I have no desire to share Baby Dimple's bread and milk supper, and far less to share her Mother Goose. Shakespeare, unabridged, is certainly no bedtime story for Little Darling. Neither are certain portions of the Bible. Yet that life is shabby, indeed, which does not include them at the proper time.

REALISM is Art's battle cry today, as it ever has been. But the advocates of Realism forget that a Star is as real as a Spittoon . . . and much pleasanter company! Many men have written of the travail of the soul . . . shown the agony of the pit . . . and the ecstacy of the peak. But none has ever surpassed old King David's wail—

"OUT OF THE DEPTHS HAVE I CRIED UNTO THEE, O LORD. LORD, LORD, HEAR MY VOICE."

"Out of the depths have I cried unto Thee!" Forever will those few words link the man who reads them with all Life, all Men—all Good. And that, to me, is the true test and purpose of real Art—that it should waken us as simply as possible to wider horizons.

The Genius accomplishes it in one cry. The Show-off uses all the back-yard fence plus pus plus spittle plus scabs.

What's Happened?

Week-End Summary of Current Events.

SIX YEARS ago this week, a moody little German politician with a brown shirt and a Charlie Chaplin moustache tearfully accepted the invitation of aging President Paul von Hindenburg to form a government.

Since then, in the words of Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels: "This land, once plagued and lying humbled, has risen once again to world power. Germany in these six years has changed its face completely. It can hardly be recognized."

Adolf Hitler's first move, in the field of world politics, was to jerk Germany out of the League of Nations. Then: The Nazi "blood purge" crushed opposition from within. . . . The Saar territory was returned to Germany. . . . Universal military training was decreed. . . . Jews were ostracized—politically, socially, economically. . . . German troops reoccupied the Rhineland. . . . The Rome-Berlin axis was forged, with an off-shoot to Tokyo, and sent aid to the Spanish Insurgents. . . . And in "glorious 1938," the Reich pushed east to absorb Austria and the Czechslovak Sudetenland.

Little man, what now?

The Speech.

The world sought an answer to that question in Der Fuehrer's speech to the Reichstag last Monday, the anniversary of his rise to power.

For two hours and 17 minutes, his high-pitched voice sang praises of the Nazi "miracle" and armed "security of the Reich" — and poured words of wrath upon the "Jewish world enemy" and the "Red plague."

Of his 30,000 words, these echoed loudest in America: "Our relations with the United States are suffering from a campaign of defamation. . . . The question, for instance, whether Germany maintains economic relations and does business with the countries of South and Central America concerns nobody but them and ourselves."

But Europe found these most significant:

1. "Germany has no territorial demands against England and France apart from that for the return of our colonies. . . . This . . . is in no sense a problem that could cause a war."

2. "There is no doubt about it that a war against the Italy of today, launched for no matter what motive, will call Germany to the side of her friend."

Europe's Reaction.

Prophets of peace thought those words meant: (1) Hitler would make a determined effort to get back the colonies taken from Germany as a result of the World war —but he wouldn't fight for them; (2) Hitler would stand by Mussolini if anybody attacked Italy—but he might not support a war started by Fascist aggression.

"Much more moderate than expected," said French Foreign Minister Bonnet.

Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain, in a foreign affairs debate before the house of commons, was enthusiastic—with reservations.

Judge Manton resigned—though denying the charges. Murphy and Dewey continued their investigations.

Technical Knockout.

Challenging the constitutionality of the Tennessee Valley Authority's "yardstick" power program, 14 private power companies sought an injunction against government competition in areas where they hold local franchises to sell electricity. TVA's low rates and high-pressure salesmanship, they complained, threaten private companies with destruction.

A lower federal court turned down their request several months ago, holding that: (1) the TVA law is constitutional; (2) the utilities "have no immunity from lawful competition even if their business be curtailed or destroyed.

The supreme court, in affirming the lower tribunal's decree this week, agreed that "the franchise to exist as a corporation . . . creates no right to be free of competition." Thus the court dodged a decision on TVA's constitutionality by knocking out the companies' complaint on the grounds that they had "no standing to maintain the suit."

First Down.

The 76th congress, just a month old, polished off its first major piece of legislation this week—a $725,000,000 appropriation to run WPA from next Tuesday to July 1, with a provision designed to keep politics out of relief.

President Roosevelt had asked $875,000,000 for WPA. The house, where appropriations must originate, decided that was $150,000,000 too much. And the senate, by a one-vote margin, refused to restore the cut. For the first time in the New Deal's six years, congress had revolted against the president on a relief spending issue.

Business Reports.

1. U. S. sales to Germany jumped 43.5 per cent during 1938, according to official figures announced in Berlin this week, while American imports from the Reich dropped 62 per cent.

2. Huge U. S. Steel corporation, after running $12,388,530 into the red during the first nine months of 1938, this week reported a net income (after interest charges) of $4,394,454 for the final quarter.

No More Shushing.

Syphilis, which has been only whispered about for centuries, is no longer sub rosa in Chicago. For two years the city has pioneered in fighting the disease. As a result, authorities reported this week, the number of blood tests taken has increased six times and twice as many cases (18,497) were treated in 1938 as in 1936. Announced goal for this year: 1,000,000 new blood tests.

Cannon's Canons.

Rep. Clarence Cannon, 59, is a Missouri Democrat, an ex-college professor and the author of half a dozen books on parliamentary law. Under both Democrats and Republicans, he serves as the official authority on procedure in the house of representatives. In a new edition of "Cannon's Procedure," out this week, he tells congressmen—among other things—that they can't arbitrarily insert "laughter" or "applause" in speeches printed in the Congressional Record but not actually delivered.

Shave and a Hamburger.

T. C. Moore, of Monroe, La., runs a barbershop and a restaurant. Last week end, he and two employes were fined $25 each for violating a state law that permits a majority of barbers in a district to fix prices. For each 50 cents spent in Moore's barbershop, the state charged, customers got a coupon good for one hamburger in Moore's restaurant.

Little Minister.

Pastor of the Junior Church of Christ at Canton, Pa., is Charles Rockwell, 12. In a remodeled chickencoop behind his father's garage, he preaches to a congregation of juveniles who used to skip Sunday school. Sample: "We should be thankful that God gives us our daily bread and not ask jelly on it."

Oddly Enough.

When a train killed several of his cows, Edgar Davis, of Geneva, N. Y., sued the railroad and lost. Now the railroad is suing him for damage to the train's wheels, flattened in slinding to a stop.

At Home

Manton's Money.

Next to the nine supreme court justices, in the American judicial hierarchy, stands the senior member of the U. S. circuit court of appeals — lately Judge Martin Thomas Manton, 58, of New York, appointed by President Wilson in 1918.

Last week-end, Attorney General Murphy announced that federal agents were looking into Judge Manton's affairs. This week, in a letter to Chairman Summers of the house judiciary committee, Manhattan Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey charged that Judge Manton had accepted loans of over $400,000 from persons interested in cases before his court.

Rep. Summers' committee, wheer impeachment proceedings against any federal official would originate, dropped the case when Hints on Etiquette.

Polite young men usually thank a girl for a dance, and she merely nods and smiles in return.

3. Anyone who is legally married a second time.

Abroad

Spanish Nutcracker.

Despite the almost total collapse of Spanish Loyalist resistance in Catalonia, the government refused this week to sue for peace. Franco mopped up the area at the rate of eight miles a day until midweek when he was slowed down by Loyalist resistance and muddy roads.

His strategy was to put a giant squeeze play on 800,000 soldiers and refugees in a pocket northeast of captured Barcelona. Using a point on France's border near Andorra as a fulcrum and the border as one arm of his nutcracker, he swept northeast to apply the squeeze. When the trapped refugees found themselves being pushed into a corner, they scrambled toward the border.

The government, some thought, might try to move the nucleus of its Catalonian army to Valencia. It still claims an army of 700,000 men, 11 of 22 provincial capitals and nearly half of Spain's population. Its officials say Franco can't claim victory till he captures Madrid. He's been in its outskirts for two years. The city is encircled by almost impregnable trenches.

Chilean Aftermath.

Relief parties, hurrying to Southern Chile's earthquake-stricken area, found conditions even worse than first reported. The death toll from last week's shock climbed to 25,000, as communications were restored, and severe new tremors were felt this week. The U. S. sent bombing plane laden with medicine from Panama.

Land for the Landless.

At an average rate now of 21,000 acres a day, land is being taken from the "haves" and given to the "have nots" in Mexico. Since Lazaro Cardenas became president, reports this week revealed, nearly as many acres as there are in Florida have been redistributed.
